Little progress in strike settlement

Deadlocked negotiations in the strike against the Jefferson Union High School District by the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 were to resume at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Dunfey Hotel in San Mateo.

Three days of contract talks at the Dunfey ended Sunday night with little progress reported on three disputed items and a renewed call by Superintendent Floyd Gonella for a state factfinding panel. No response had been received by Tuesday morning from state mediator Michael West on that.

The strike is in its 19th working day, with the AFT, parents and students maintaining vigils outside the negotiating room. Many of them also stood watch outside the district office Monday afternoon during a special Board of Trustee meeting, but it was reported that the board was finishing up some of last Tuesday's agenda items and took no action on them.

AFT spokesman Tom Fitzpatrick said the union planned to make another major revision in its proposals Tuesday, toning down its salary demands to stay with President Carter's anti-inflationary guidelines, a three-year contract with guaranteed adjustments within those guidelines for each of the three years, and a no-strike clause for the life of that contract.

The AFT had offered what it considered a major concession Saturday, when it dropped its demand for binding arbitration of the salary question and said it would agree to the federal wage guidelines.

The district has claimed it has lost over $200,000 in state average daily attendance money since the strike began and, combined with its lack of funding to pay more salaries without more layoffs, the squeeze is getting tighter.

The three designated League of Women Voters neutral observers chosen late last week also were scheduled to make their first appearance at the negotiations Tuesday.

They are not to take a part in the contract talks, but are encouraged to give their views of the proceedings.

The three are Ann Coombs, Ann Bernstein and Ann Clifton, all of Los Altos. The alternate is Masako Nagumo of San Mateo.

Decertification asked

A petition to decertify the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 as the exclusive bargaining agent for Jefferson Union High School District teachers was filed Tuesday with the state Personnel Employment Relations Board by the Jefferson Union High School District Teachers Association.

The petition, which requires a 30 percent show of support, asks for an election among the teachers to determine their preference of organization to represent them.

In a written statement issued Tuesday from the California Teachers Association headquarters in Burlingame, JUHSDTA President Mary McDermott said "...although the AFT handling of the current labor dispute was a contributing factor in JUHSDTA's decision to file the petition, the general quality of the representation over the past three years has not been what the teachers deserve. The petition...should have no effect on current bargaining to settle the strike."

AFT Local 1481 has been the exclusive bargaining agent for the district's 385 teachers since May 1976. The JUHSDTA is affiliated with the CTA and National Education Association.

Neither Miss McDermott nor AFT spokesmen were available for comment Tuesday.

One more arrest of a picket at about noon Monday brought that total to 21 since the strike began, this one at the district bus yard near Jefferson High School in Daly City.

John J. Gilmore, a temporary teacher, was arrested by Police Officer George Quinn at the request of District Transportation Supervisor John Angle after Gilmore allegedly had refused to leave the yard when ordered by Angle.

The AFT had had its usual morning meeting and rally at the Gellert Park clubhouse in Daly City, with about 35 pickets gathering afterward at Jefferson High and marching onto the campus, according to police.

They left when asked to do so by school authorities, but a contingent of them then proceeded to the bus yard, entered and were ordered out, officers said.

Angle had ordered Gilmore off the lot earlier Monday, police noted, adding that this was Gilmore's second arrest since the strike started. He was booked at the Daly City Jail for interfering with conduct of school activities and released on $250 bail. He is to appear later in Northern District Municipal Court for arraignment.

Gilmore and Angle were involved in a truck-ramming incident during the AFT strike last year, Fitzpatrick recalled.

In other strike developments, Gonella said he was astounded at rumors of radio reports that the strike either had been settled or was nearing agreement. "We're far from agreement and I think factfinding is the best way to help us," he emphasized.

He also confirmed that Board President George Robinson has two guards on his home 24 hours a day, although Fitzpatrick said, "I don't know what he thinks someone is going to do."

Robinson, a teacher at Crestmoor School in San Bruno, and Trustee James Powell, a teacher's aide at Mills High School in Millbrae, have

Dealing with the elderly alcoholic

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

THE POST

Vol. 33 No. 39 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING Wednesday, October 3, 1979

By JOHN CURRY
Post Staff Writer

With all the publicity in recent years about the hazards of alcoholism amid the stresses of modern-day life, one might get the impression that the problem has been exposed among all segments of the population and that programs to combat it have been addressed on every front.

Well, that depends on how successful any particular group has been in sweeping its problem under the rug.

Teenagers have not. They're under public scrutiny in schools, sports and every conceivable educational and leisure activity geared to them and their pocketbooks, from youth symphonies to the friendly local dope pusher. Frequent public displays of noisy, drink-induced shows of maturity and bravado also serve their needs for attention and guidance.

Working-age alcoholics can make themselves obvious by lost time on the job, faltering of careers, or breakups of families.

But at the far end of the spectrum, Grandma and Grandpa often can be found quietly nipping, secure in the knowledge that since they're retired, they're not hurting anyone and no one will care, anyway.

That isn't so, and the CareUnit staff at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City can cite chapter and verse why.

As much as 40 percent of its patient load in the 17-bed ninth-floor CareUnit for treatment of alcohol addiction is 55 years old and over, most of them retired, according to Program Director Carol Wambaugh and Patient Care Coordinator Judy Gallen.

A good many people spend their working lives as social drinkers, but at retirement "The limits are gone" and they can find themselves with nothing to do. That's when the bottle can become a problem, Ms. Wambaugh said.

The loss of self-esteem at not being needed or wanted for anything anymore, the loneliness of a sudden widowhood and just plain boredom have produced a class of tipplers who at age 60 or 70 ask "Why should I stop drinking at this late date?"

"I don't answer that," Ms. Wambaugh said, "We let them find the answer for themselves."

But dealing with an elderly person can be very difficult because CareUnit workers sometimes must break through a lifetime of habit and tradition in the patient to get at the root of the problem, Ms. Gallen said.

School-age fun and games and encounter group approaches don't work with them. The drinking wasn't a lark to begin with and direct group confrontations "tear down their defenses" and scare them off, Ms. Wambaugh said.

Often, "They're coping with too many losses at the same time. At their age, many of their family and friends are dying," she added.

The older they become, the less tolerance the body of a senior citizen will show for the effects of alcohol. The elderly make up about 10 percent of the nation's population, but consume about 25 percent of the prescribed medicines, many of them mood-altering drugs, which, when combined with alcohol, can be devastating, Ms. Wambaugh stated.

This also points up the need for more education within the medical profession on the effects of alcoholism, she said, noting "Doctors often don't even ask about drinking when they're treating symptoms of a disease. But they could find out with a little gentle confrontation. I've seen the case of a man with an obvious liver problem being told by his physician that one or two drinks a day are all right. He may have been treating symptoms and not getting to the cause, which in a great many cases can be traced to alcohol."

Getting the older folks to seek help for their drinking problems is a problem in itself, other than it being harder for them to adjust their lifestyles, Ms. Gallen said.

First, it's getting the elderly drinker to recognize that he or she is in trouble, either health-wise or by being branded a late-blooming alcoholic. Ms. Wambaugh said some do come to the CareUnit by themselves, but others have been referred by physicians, families and senior citizen service agencies. The patients are from all walks of life, including some clerics and nuns, Ms. Wambaugh said.

The sheltered, completely confidential CareUnit treatment cycle runs three to four weeks and can be entered at any point, and costs between $4,000 and $5,000. A good many patients are covered by medical insurance for all or part of this, Ms. Wambaugh said.

But for a senior citizen, the last part may be the hardest. "It's very important to keep the recovery program going through Alcoholics Anonymous or other senior agencies, but if they don't have transportation, how do they get there? They're often very frightened about going out at night," she continued.

Getting the drinker's family involved can be helpful in this and other areas. Transportation could be taken care of to such ongoing recovery programs as those at Golden Gate for Seniors or the North of Market Senior Center in San Francisco or Little House in Menlo Park, Ms. Wambaugh said.

But involved families also can mean flushing out the "co-alcoholics" in the house - spouses or friends who encourage drinking by joining the alcoholic for a toot, or covering and making excuses for him when he can't function. "These people often are just as sick as the alcoholics and need as much help," Ms. Gallen said. "They tend to lead very secret lives."

She went on that for the co-alcoholic, "who often is left without a role during and after recovery," there's Al-Anon, an offshoot of AA specifically for the co-alcoholic, and "stressed as an important adjunct to post-alcoholism."

The CareUnit treatment plan is designed to address the problem, not the patient, Ms. Wambaugh said. "We don't strap people down here," Ms. Gallen added.

Treatment starts with detoxification and moves through evaluation, then gets into the serious business of talks, rap sessions with other patients and a carefully-controlled drug-free diet, which even cuts out coffee or tea with caffeine in it.

Alcohol is a powerful drug, along with heroin one of the two most powerful in the world, and is the third-largest killer in the United States, Ms. Gallen noted.

More people die from alcohol withdrawal than from drinking, so the medication the patients need and surveillance of their condition is especially important, they said.

Some people don't realize how close they are to alcohol addiction "until some spark sets it off," Ms. Gallen said.

The CareUnit treatment seems to them to be largely successful, with a re-admission rate of about 12 percent. These mainly are persons who didn't follow up with ongoing AA or other programs, they went on.

But they've been heartened by their successes. One retired couple who traveled a lot in their motorhome and drank together constantly was very surprised to find the alcohol problem, despite drinking two quarts of the strong stuff every day, the women said.

"No wonder we drove the camper into the pond that night" they told each other, and "told all kinds of stories" about their misadventures, Ms. Wambaugh said. But they went away "with solid plans" and a commitment to AA.

"We're just one small step in the process of recovery," Ms. Wambaugh said. "We don't just say we can cure anything." The trick is to break a habit perhaps of long years

A traffic stop arrest prompts an uproar

A New Jersey chemical industry consultant is plenty sore about the handling of his arrest on a traffic stop by Daly City police and his booking by sheriff's deputies at the North County jail in Daly City, and he and his attorney don't care who knows about it.

Dr. B.J. Luberoff of Summit, N.J., arrested and jailed early on the morning of April 6, paid his $20 bail and forfeited it, but has made public the whole story of what he calls a "hateful situation" that "needs all of the public exposure that it can get."

He has sent letters of protest to Daly City Police Chief David Hansen, Mayor Victor J. Kyriakis, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., the "chief magistrate" of the courts and to a Sheriff William Cody, presumably intending it for San Mateo County Sheriff John R. McDonald.

Luberoff charged that he was treated badly by the arresting police officers and later by the sheriff's jail staff.

The only response he listed as received has come from Daly City Poice Capt. Roger R. Austin, whose letter said the matter had been investigated and that "in essence, our conclusion is that your complaint is primarily against the California Vehicle Code. The actions taken by our officers were within department policy and consistent with the requirements of existing law.

"Obviously our procedures in California are quite different from those in New Jersey," Austin went on. "However, I am satisfied that our officers made every effort to explain to you the requirements of the law in this matter. Your arrest was an unfortunate necessity because all available alternatives have been exhausted."

Luberoff, 54, said he was visiting a daughter in Daly City while enroute from Honolulu, Hawaii, to the east coast. He was driving through Daly City, tired, when he was stopped by police for not making a full stop at a red light and describd what happened:

The officer wrote the traffic citation, but when Luberoff didn't read it quickly, he said he was told "Sign it. Sign it. Just read the bottom, the part where you promise to appear in two weeks before the magistrate."

Luberoff said he wouldn't do that because he didn't reside here, at which the officer called for a sergeant, who arrived shortly. Luberoff said the sergeant became angry when Luberoff told him "I can't sign something I don't believe" and said he wanted to see a magistrate.

He said he was told he could see a magistrate if he spent the night in jail, at which he agreed to sign the citation. But when he began to write "signed under duress," Luberoff said an agrument followed and he was arrested, searched, handcuffed and taken to jail.

Luberoff complained about the handcuffs cutting his wrists, and the officer said he would loosen them after the sergent left. He did.

After arrival at the jail, he said he was told to take off his belt because "we don't want you to hang yourself, old man," he said one of the jailors told him.

The deputies set the bail, but again Luberoff argued about the bail form, which also contained a promise to appear in court at a later date, and again he said he was told he could see a judge in the morning if he stayed in jail for the night.

"I think tht's what you should do," he said one of the jailors told him, at which Luberoff agreed and was led to a cell, which he said consisted of a window covered with cardboard, a bare light bulb that couldn't be turned off and a blanket and fresh paper sheets on the bed.

He was so upset he couldn't sleep, and lay there thinking "Is this the Soviet Union? Or possibly Nazi Germany? No, this was Daly City, Calif., and my only crime was passing a red light without coming to a sufficiently complete stop, not much of a crime since, while all this was in progress, but one car passed."

Shortly after a jailor entered the cell, told Luberoff the original bail of $250 was too high and that it had been reduced to $20. At this point he decided to sign the paper and forfeit the $20.

But the long night wasn't over. He then was asked to sign a form saying he would pay towing charges on his car, which he called a "blank check."

He then was told the car was stored some distance away and that he could get a cab there in a half-hour or so. There was no alterative, he was told, so he waited and the cab came.

The cab driver apologized profusely on behalf of Daly City enroute to the garage, which they found closed. The sun was rising as the cab dropped Luberoff at a motel, where he slept fitfully for a few hours, after which another cab took him back to the garage and he paid $30 to recover his car.

"The question is: What is the old man to tell his Boy Scouts the next time he takes them to night court so that they can appreciate the American legal system?" Luberoff concluded.

With his story he included a letter from attorney Stephen D. Shear of the Oakland law firm of Sorensen, Strickman, Tooby and Turner, which he had contacted, the letter saying there was "almost no possibility of successful litigation" of the issue because Austin's reply is "actually and unfortunately true."

Shear's letter went on:

"Your shock at the events occurring in Daly City is typical of the reaction of most people who are white and who have never had a bad experience with the police. Until one becomes embroiled in our 'system of justice,' most people believe the myth that the American legal system treats people fairly and with respect. That is by no means the case, a fact of life well-hidden from America's 'silent majority,' but a harsh reality to the less fortunate members of our society.

"I'm afraid little more can be done, at least in the short run in regards to this particular incident. The long-term solution to this sort of problem is political, not legal, for example, establishing civilian police review commissions and demanding that the police treat those arrested with the respect they deserve, at least until they are convicted of a crime.

"You only experienced the edges of the horrors of the criminal justice system. When one is arrested for a more serious crime than a traffic violation, he or she is subjected to an experience which is truly Kafkaesque: Repeated court appearances where nothing happens, dehumanization as one file among many in the district attorney's and public defender's briefcases, immersion in a system where the primary concern is to make the administrative mill of the legal system run smoothly enough so they can handle the many cases which clog our courts."...you can count yourself lucky that you were treated so well by the police. If you were black and poor, there would have been a good chance that you would have been seriously injured physically because you didn't want to sign something that wasn't true."

Strike lingers on

By ROBIN MOELLER
Commissioner of Publicity
Serramonte High School

As the strike lingered on, school still continued with substitute teachers, and the 1979-1980 school year ended its first credit period Sept. 28.

At this date one unit of credit was given for each class a student attended.

The American Federation of Teachers has published a bulletin on credits. In this bulletin it states:

(1.) No student will receive less than five credits per semester.

(2.) The past practice clause in the teachers contract prevents the school board from creating policies contrary to the teachers contract.

It also states that grades, given by tbe teacher in charge, will be final.

There was a meeting Sept. 24 in Pacifica of the American Federation of Teachers and one Sept. 25 at Westmoor High School of the Board of Trustees.

Serramonte was well represented at both meetings. During the meeting at Westmoor High School, Serramonte students brought up the issue of Mr. Dubois to the board.

Mr. Dubois was suspended and then sent to Thornton, as an assistant principal, a job which was created.

Serramonte students voiced their views that they wanted Mr. Dubois back at Serramonte High School, and thought it unfair that he had been suspended.

A rally was scheduled for Sept. 27; the cheerleaders and football team being featured and the new executive board members announced. It was the first rally scheduled this year.

Again this year, spirit points will be given to the different classes, according to their spirit and achievements.

Along with points given to posters and the like, something new will begin this year. During the lunch period, there will be sports and activities between members of the various classes, with the winners receiving points for their class.

Don't forget to buy student body cards, on sale soon. This year's cards will feature many discounts and privileges.

The Junior State will convene Oct. 6 at the University of San Francisco, Golden Gate and Parker avenues.

The meeting will be from 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. and cost $3.50 per person (for registration and educational materials).

Some topics discussed will be energy vs. the environment, liberal conservative and ethnic diversity vs. the melting pot.

been the targets of AFT pickets at their schools and Mrs. Powell also has had parents and students picketing at her home.

The board also will be a member short for a month or so. Trustee John Sloane, a professor and dean in the San Francisco State University Department of Behaviorial and Social Sciences, left at 12 a.m. yesterday on a sabbatical study trip to Germany and is to return sometime in November.

Sloane won the sabbatical in a competition and has been committed to it for some time, Gonella said, and already has postponed it once because of the strike.

"We have arranged to keep in very close contact with him," Gonella said, adding that Sloane's absence "won't effect any board action in any way."

The AFT represents nearly 500 teachers, paraprofessionals, aides and office and clerical workers.

The district has kept the schools open with about 200 substitute teachers a day, and claims that the number of non-striking AFT members is creeping upward.

District spokesman Dave Shepard said 115 regular teachers, or 39 percent, reported for work Monday, and 3,654 students, or 56 percent of the enrollment, came to class. Both figures are up somewhat from last week, when around 35 percent of the teachers and 50 percent of the students were listed.

But Fitzpatrick has stuck to a steady figure of 22 percent of employees and 40 percent of the students in school.

The Mary's Help Care-Unit, now 3½ years old, is part of a growing network of alcoholism treatment centers of Comprehensive Care Corp. of Newport Beach. CompCare is growing fast, with some 50 centers nationwide now, according to Regional Manager Robert Yost, and treated 31,000 patients last year.

Pitching certainly isn't overrated this year

Le Pacini

I have written in the past that pitching can sometimes be overrated. But it certainly isn't this year. As the two best cases in point, check out the Orioles and Astros.

Sure, Houston had speed and aggressiveness and defense, but does anybody seriously believe they would have hung in the race without possibly the best pitching in the National League?

Actually, Baltimore has a much more solid all-around team than Houston, and could have won with a lesser pitching staff, but certainly wouldn't have dominated the American League East the way they did.

What was amazing about the Oriole pitching staff, in fact, was its total domination over the rest of the league.

While the Houston and Baltimore staffs finished the season with virtually identical ERA's, Baltimore's ERA stat was much more impressive because of the hitting in the AL this year.

Whether that hitting was due to all around weaker AL pitching or the designated hitter rule or a combination of both is a mute point. The fact of the matter is that the team with the next best ERA to the Orioles' was the Yankees (who ended up in fourth place), and they were .60 behind the Orioles — more than half a run per game!

There was a difference of 1.60 runs per game between Baltimore and Toronto, the team with the AL's worst ERA.

IN CONTRAST, Houston and Montreal finished in almost a dead heat for team ERA, and there was a difference of only 1.10 runs per game between those teams and Atlanta, the NL team with the worst ERA.

In relative terms then, Baltimore had a much stronger staff than Houston (proportionately, about half a run a game better), and you know how good Houston's pitching was this year!

And to think that the Orioles did all of that without their ace, Jim Palmer!

As further evidence of the special importance of pitching this season, consider that the Giants, while flirting with the lowest ERA in the league (which is a disgrace when one considers that the only worse ERA comes out of Atlanta, which may be the best hitter's park in the league), also allowed the second highest total of hits (behind Atlanta) and the second highest total of walks, behind only the Mets.

Last year, with virtually the same pitching staff, the Giants ranked second in all of the above categories, and, despite less run production, stayed in the race all season.

There is one glimmer of hope for Giants' pitching, however. The staff ranked third in the league in strikeouts, which means that somebody still has some pretty good stuff.

SUDDEN THOUGHTS:

The Red Sox still owe the Giants a player or cash for Jim Dwyer, who, incidentally, during the season he was with the Giants hit his major league highs in homers, RBI and runs scored.

Suppose the Red Sox decided to repay the Giants by returning Dwyer, who the Giants could use on the bench. Would that be the first time in baseball history that a player was ever traded for himself?

On a more serious note, as they say, if Carton Fisk recovers from his arm problems, would that make expendable either of Boston's two promising young catchers, Gary Allenson (good receiver, power hitter) and Mike O'Berry (shot-gun arm)?

AND ARE THE Giants the only young team in the history of baseball who have gotten worse with experience?

When the experts, or fans, talk about MVP candidates, nobody ever seems to mention the Angels' Don Baylor, who not only won the major league RBI title going away, but also led the AL in runs scored, hit around .300 and was in the top five in total hits and homeruns and stole more than 20 bases. And, of course, perhaps the most important criteria in voting, his team won its division.

If it weren't for that unwritten criteria, I don't know how any voter could not cast his ballot for Dave Winfield of the Padres in the National League. Here is a man who

Contest Rules

1. Select the winner of each game by placing an "X" in the box on the margin side of the team you think will win. If you predict that the game will end in a tie, place an "X" only in the column headed "Ties" between the two teams. If the game ends in a tie, credit will be given only to contestants who predict the tie.
2. Write the total net yards (rushing and passing) that you think the designated team will make in the box provided. This estimate will be used only in case of ties between two or more contestants.
3. Clip and mail the entry blank to:

FOOTBALL CONTEST
San Mateo Times
P.O. Box 5400
San Mateo, Calif. 94402

4. Entries must be postmarked prior to midnight Thursday of this week or delivered to The Times prior to 5:30 p.m. Thursday of this week. The Times is not responsible for entries lost, delayed or destroyed or which fail to reach The Times by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday.
5. A $25 cash prize will be awarded to the best entry submitted each week. An additional $25 will be awarded if the best entry is submitted by a Times subscriber or the entrant indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted. In the event a winner cannot be determined by use of a tie-breaker, the prize money will be divided equally among the eligible contestants who tied for the week's best entry. Check the appropriate box at the bottom of the entry form to become eligible for the additional $25.
6. A $100 cash prize will be awarded to a Times subscriber, or entrant, who indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted, who selects all 15 games correctly. In the event two or more entrants select all 15 games correctly, the tie-breaker will not be used. Instead, the $100 cash prize will be divided among all of the eligible entrants who selected all 15 games correctly. Check the appropriate box at the bottom of the entry form to become eligible for the $100 cash prize.
7. Cash prizes will be payable only to the contestant identified on the entry blank. Winning contestants will be required to show identification.
8. Number of entries from one household is limited to three (3) including only one (1) facsimile of the official entry blank permitted per household. Submission of more than three entries or one facsimile will render all facsimiles submitted by that contestant void.
9. Entries may be attached to a postcard, mailed in an envelope or delivered by hand to the San Mateo, Redwood City or South San Francisco office of Amphlett Printing Company's publications — The Times, The Post, San Bruno Herald, Recorder-Progress, The Coastside Chronicle and the Daily City Herald.
10. Anyone may enter the contest except employees of The Times and their immediate families.
11. The decision of the judges is final. All contestants agree to abide by the judges' decisions. All entries become the property of The Times, no answers may be returned. The Times reserves the right to correct any typographical errors in the entry blank which affect the outcome of the contest. Answers to the contest or winners' name will NOT be given out over the phone. Winners will be notified by The Times.

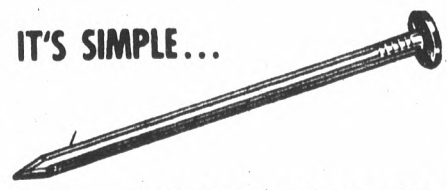
IT'S SIMPLE...



BUT WORKS WONDERS

A nail builds tall buildings . . . bridges canyons and rivers . . . makes toys . . . ties communication lines to utility poles . . . holds things together.

The newspaper is a simple idea that works wonders, too. It moves merchandise . . . doctors the economy . . . distributes jobs . . . finds people to do jobs . . . informs, educates and entertains.

When you want to sell, buy, rent, hire or announce . . . think of the simple idea that works.

Learning skills of parenting

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Despite our fears, hopes and good intentions, in times of stress "we tend to parent as we were parented," says Gretchen Smithey, an "on-line" volunteer for the Parental Stress Service.

Ms. Smithey, speakjng recently at a general meeting of 17th District PTA, commended that group for its plans to be involved in helping parents learn parenting skills, ones to help them stay away from being pnysically, emotionally or sexually abusive of their children.

But even while PTA and other groups begin "parenting" education in earnest, stresses exist in local families.

Sometimes these resolve themselves without pain. More often, those involved find themselves at wit's end, totally unable to cope.

Has it always been this way? Experts say, "yes." The stress of living in a family has always existed. Recently, though, additional factors have contributed to its aggravation.

Ours is a mobile society, especially here along the West Coast. California, the golden goal of so many, offers climate, job opportunities and a concentration of cultural and recreational activities unparalleled elsewhere.

But many who come here come alone. Sometimes it is a nuclear family that arrives together — mother, father, children. Grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, close friends — all are left behind.

Statistically, many who have moved to San Mateo County in recent years know no one. There are no relatives nor friends close by with ready and sympathetic ears. It often takes both time and opportunity to build friendships.

Some young parents, caught in the daily grind of enough work to make enough money to meet essential living costs find themselves with little leisure and even less inclination to get out into the community.

A second subtle but exceptionally pervasive influence on today's family is television. Not only are external economic, political and social stresses brought dramatically into one's own living roomn, but the models for daily family living "as seen on television" are not workable ones for most parents.

In 1975, the Human Investment Project, an agency designed to do needs assessment, surveyed communities in San Mateo County. The agency's findings — that many parents in the area were experiencing stressful situations from which they didn't know how to extricate themselves — led to establishment of the Parental Stress Hotline.

First funding came from HIP. Then County Mental Health Services adopted the program. This year, because of cutbacks in the county mental health budget, the group was incorporated as the nonprofit Parental Stress Service.

Those who call the hotline (573-9300) find first of all someone who'll listen. Often this is enough. Psychologists have long known that sometimes simply talking about one's problems leads to better personal understanding and resolution of them.

Anonymity is respected on both ends of the line although hotline volunteers do introduce themselves by their first names. These sometimes provide a sense of anchoring for the caller who knows he or she has reached a "real" person. It also helps a caller to know to whom to say "thank you" if a suggested solution works out.

According to Ms. Smithey, it is mostly mothers who call, many of them young, more often than not experiencing difficulties with their first child. Sometimes dads call, too. Age is no real reference point. PSS has had calls from elderly parents concerned about their middle-aged children. Neither is relationship. Children call. So do unrelated third parties. These facts lead Ms. Smithey to believe a more appropriate name might be "Family Stress Service."

After an initial exploration of the problem, the volunteer on line begins to list for the caller some of the community resources available. If stress is great, suppose the caller sounds overwrought, even hysterical, crisis liners are trained to cut through bureaucratic red tape.

In such cases, the caller is asked to disregard anonymity for the sake of the child or children who might be abused. The crisis liner then gets sufficient information — name, address, phone number — to put people from other agencies — children's services, especially; police, if necessary — in direct contact with the caller.

In cases of extreme emotional emergency, crisis liners can contact Children's Protective Services workers day or night in order to effect removal of a child or children from potentially or actually abusive situations, in effect, providing parents and children with vital respite.

Westmoor rips Sequoia 40-12

Westmoor High's football team issued a stern warning to the rest of the North Peninsula League Friday night in the form of a 40-12 thrashing of host Sequoia in its final non-league game.

After two lackluster opening losses, the Rams may just be a real contender in the NPL, especially if they move the ball offensively like they did against Sequoia (0-3).

Westmoor moved the ball at will against the Tribe, scoring from long and short range, and also on defense. Coach Pete Matisi's run-and-shoot offense looked finely tuned, run by quarterback Tom Orloff.

The Rams jumped ahead 13-0 running only one offensive play. Linebacker Ron Hansen picked off an errant Sequoia pass and rambled 60 yards for Westmoor's first score.

Sequoia ran three plays and punted to Westmoor. On the first play, Orloff found Stuart Ramirez slanting out of the backfield. Ramirez caught the pass and outran the defense down the sideline for a 57-yard TD.

Sequoia moved the ball pretty well on the ground in the first half, but continually made mistakes in the way of fumbles and penalties.

The Rams' Paul Sangervasi scored from a yard-out, culminating a 38-yard drive after a Tribe fumble, to make it 20-0 at half.

Ramirez caught another bomb from Orloff, this time for 73 yards, and Darrin Jones sped 41 yards for another Ram score to make it 34-0.

Sequoia's Lethal Hayes, a lone bright spot in an otherwise sour evening, ran the following kickoff back 72 yards for a touchdown. He gained 142 yards on 20 carries for the Tribe, most of their 209 yards of total offense,.

Orloff completed seven of 18 passes for 179 yards and two touchdowns. Jones finished with 114 yards on 15 totes to lead the ground attack.

JUST IN TIME

Aragon High defender is thwarted by Ocean High's Mike Malloy as he tries to get to Oceana quarterback John Brown in game at Hillsdale Friday. Brown got the pass off despite the pressure. Aragon beat Oceana, 20-17.

Serramonte grid team has blues

For Serramonte High's football team, a rare Saturday afternoon contest produced an acute case of deja vu.

"We're used to playing on Fridays," said Regent Coach Ken Cook. "We played exactly the same way in a Saturday game last year."

Which was not well. Committing seven turnovers, accumulating more than 100 yards in penalties and failing to score fives times after penetrating the opponent's 10-yard line, Serramonte dropped an 18-6 decision to highly-touted but equally mistake-prone visitor St. Mary's of Berkeley.

Serramonte got 16 first downs and nearly 300 yards in total offense, but Cook wasn't impressed with the Regents' execution.

The first play from scrimmage was an accurate preview of things to come. Two Regent cornerbacks lined up opposite one wide receiver. St. Mary's George White then broke off tackle and sprinted untouched through the secondary for a 55-yard touchdown.

Regent quarterback Robert Williams, who enjoyed a spectacular day in the Regents' last game, two weeks ago against San Mateo, passed for 197 yards and a touchdown, but was intercepted five times.

"He wasn't throwing the ball as he had in practice," said Cook. "His inexperience showed. When you run up against a team with a strong secondary like St. Mary's, you have to run more precise patterns. Robert was trying for the home run all day long. If we can bring Robert back to earth, we'll be okay."

Dons rally, nip Oceana

It's been a long time since an Aragon High football team posted such a big offensive effort in a close game.

But Friday afternoon at Hillsdale against visiting Oceana, the Dons rung up 336 yards offensively in running their non-league record to 2-0-1 with a 20-17 come-from-behind win over the opportunistic Sharks.

The Sharks looked like winners until Aragon struck with uncharacteristic suddenness. Don quarterback Don Hendricks, a bull of a player at 6-3 and 195 pounds, was the catalyst.

Hendricks faked up the middle and put the ball on his hip. He was looking for Gary Holden slanting toward the post up the middle. The pass was letter perfect, and Holden snared it in stride for a 49-yard TD play with just 4:31 left.

On the extra point try, Oceana was penalized half the distance to the goal. So Aragon coach Britt Williams went for two points. Hendricks was stopped short.

After the game Williams said that wasn't such a good move. Had Oceana moved into field goal position, a kick by Don Haas could have tied the game.

Oceana had two more shots to win. But Aragon's defense snuffed both tries. First, the ever-present Holden intercepted a John Brown pass with 3:08 left on the Don 32.

Then after Aragon couldn't run out the clock, Oceana took over on its own 25 after a booming Holden punt with 0:34 to go. On the second play, John Hammond again intercepted Brown, and that sealed things.

The Sharks posted 10 points in the last 2:06 of the first half, benefitting from two Don fumbles. Haas booted a 32-yard field goal with 2:06 left. On Aragon's first play, Orlando James recovered a Don fumble.

Just three plays later Brown hit a wide-open tight end Tom Wetzel for a five-yard TD toss. That made it 14-10.

A third Don mistake gave Oceana its other score. Hendricks' first pass of the second half was picked off by Mike Malloy, who ran it back 75 yards for the go-ahead TD to make it 17-14.

Hendricks was in on both first-half Don scores. He ran a fine bootleg for seven yards for the first, and then hit Holden amid three defenders for a 19-yard TD a minute and a half later.

The Aragon running game really came to life. Dave Cauchi rambled for 94 yards on 19 carries; 82 yards came in the last half. Hammond added 60 on 16 and Hendricks had 43 on seven.

Hendricks completed just seven of 19 asses, but totaled 144 yards.

Jeff win over SM won't go in books

Jefferson High quarterback Richard Rodgers could have added lustre to an already bright reputation and San Mateo High running back Greg Blumenfeld could have been proud of a masterful fill-in job — if only what the two schools played Friday had been an official football game.

But it wasn't. Because of the teachers' strike in the Jefferson district, the game was moved to San Mateo, and no doctor showed up. A game cannot be played without a doctor present, so the coaches agreed to call the proceedings a scrimmage.

There were no kickoffs — each team got to start at its own 30 instead — and no punt returns were allowed. Everything else was as it would have been in a game — except maybe for the adrenalin.

Rodgers ran for one long touchdown and passed for another. if score had been kept officially Jeff would have won 21-14.

As it is, Jeff remains 1-0 in non-league play, and San Mateo is 2-0.

Rodgers, a 6-0, 190-pound senior who is probably the most feared player in the County, doesn't run as much as he did last year because he's playing quarterback now. But Rodgers is so strong and so quick that he's scary no matter what he does.

Jeff didn't do much in the first half, and didn't need to. On Jeff's sixth play from scrimmage, on a second-and-12 at its own 20, Rodgers ran a keeper to the right, found out he only had two men to beat, cruised right through them and rambled 80 yards to score.

San Mateo, behind the gutty running of Blumenfeld (a 5-10, 170-pound junior who got a lot of work because regular Val Hernandez was on crutches), took advantage of a poor Jefferson punt to drive 34 yards to paydirt early in the second quarter.

Blumenfeld carried over from the six.

Early in the third quarter Rodgers struck again, faking beautifully into the line and hitting receiver Jose Nuilha on a quick pop; the play went for 65 yards and a score.

San Mateo tied with 6:40 left in the game after James Daily had intercepted a Rodgers pass at the Jefferson 14 and returned it to the one. SM quarterback Dave Stanton snuck over from there, and the score was tied.

San Mateo had been moving the ball better (except for the two big plays) all afternoon, without getting much to show for it.

But Jefferson marched when it had to, going 70 yards to score, aided down the stretch by two San Mateo penalties for first downs. Doug Cheatum carried over from the seven with 2:54 left.

Rodgers carried nine times for 95 yards and completed five of 11 passes for 153 more. Jeff wound up with 344 yards to San Mateo's 229. Blumenfeld, a real workhorse, packed 28 times for 139 yards. None of this, of course, counts in season statistics.

Tigers come back against Panthers

When Terra Nova High's football team — almost invariably a solid title contender in the North Peninsula League in recent years — started off the current season with a resounding 39-16 loss to Capuchino, the picture, needless to say, didn't look too bright for the Tigers.

And when Terra Nova dropped a 20-7 decision to Hillsdale last week, the outlook worsened for the Tigers. The teachers' strike going on in Terra Nova's district was hurting school morale, and that had to be rubbing off on the school's athletes to some degree.

But, oh, what a difference one afternoon can make. Terra Nova hardly looked invincible in its non-league game against host Burlingame Friday, but the Tigers capitalized on a couple of costly Panther mistakes and rolled to a fairly impressive 17-0 victory.

Although the Tiger offense rolled up a less-than-astronomical total of 170 yards, that was 101 more than Burlingame gained. And perhaps the most encouraging aspect of the win for Terra Nova was the fact that the Tigers nearly played error-free football. Terra Nova did throw a pair of interceptions, but was penalized only twice and recovered its only fumble.

"The big thing is, I think a lot of us have been learning from our mistakes," said Tiger running back Tim Bender, the game's leading ballcarrier with 64 yards on 15 trips.

"We changed our running game a little bit, and we have a whole different passing game — give a lot of credit to the coaches for that. They've been having a tough time looking at everyone and evaluating everyone, because everyone can play. We've got 52 guys who can all do the job.

"Today, our defense just did a helluva job, and the offensive line was doing its job. We've just gotten tougher — everyone wants to win."

In order to do that consistently, the Tigers will have to improve in certain areas. Their passing game, for example, accounted for only four completions in 20 attempts, with three interceptions. But junior southpaw Rick Miller showed promise by throwing the ball well at times. His favorite target was receiver Glenn Albrecht, who had three receptions for 49 yards.

Terra Nova's offense didn't generate any long scoring drives — but then, with the Tiger special teams making a couple of big plays, it didn't have to.

The Tigers' first big break came midway through the first quarter. Burlingame, kicking the ball out of its own end zone, got off a very poor punt. Terra Nova's John Hinsch, running right to left, gathered in the short, wobbly punt on the Panther six-yard line and sped across the goal line untouched, giving the visitors a 6-0 edge.

The margin widened when the Panthers had trouble returning a couple of Tiger kickoffs very early in the third quarter. On the second-half kickoff, Burlingame's receiving unit, confused, never touched the ball. Terra Nova's Mike Ditlevson recovered the live ball at the Burlingame 21, and placekicker Andreas Wolf booted a 36-yard field goal four plays later, giving the Tigers a 9-0 lead.

Aggressive lineman Van Zannis played well for Burlingame, making more than a half-dozen tackles.

Cap tops SSF on catch

Ed Fonseca could make a living in acrobatics.

The Capuchino High wide receiver played a major role in the Mustangs' 10-0 non-league football win over host South San Francisco High Friday night with an acrobatic catch for a touchdown that had interception written all over it.

It was the first and last touchdown Cap scored, and it was all Cap needed against a Warrior team that drove hard but came up short.

Mustang quarterback Jeff Monteroso threw for 65 yards, completing five of 13 attempts. Fonseca was on the receiving end of four of those passes for 48 yards, including the touchdown, which went for 36 yards.

There was seemingly no way that Fonseca could have caught that pass. The Warrior defender had better position than the Arabs during an oil crisis. But Fonseca leaped high enough to grab the ball on the tips of his fingers and fell backwards into the end zone. He was treading a tightrope, and held his balance long enough to make the curtain call.

Gordon Hawkins added a 26-yard field goal for Cap in the second quarter, and the game thereafter became a defensive battle.

South City held its own in this one. Cap had a first and goal situation in which the Warriors allowed only the field goal. On another first and goal, SSF stood its ground and refused to allow the Mustangs to score. South City stopped Cap on two other occasions inside the Warrior 20-yard line.

"We had to run straight at them," said Cap Coach Rich Mazzoncini. "They are so big, they didn't allow us to run angles. That was the big key. Also, we got a few breaks."

The breaks included two fumbles, two interceptions and a multitude of penalties (the Warriors were caught eight times for 80 yards) that stalled South City more often than Cap's defense. SSF accumulated 251 total offensive yards as compared to Cap's 169 total offensive yards.

Pacini

is in the top five or 10 in every offensive category in the league (and is a marvelous defensive right fielder who can steal bases when they're needed) and leads the league in RBI for the worst hitting team in the Western Division.

FOR WINFIELD to do that, he had to come through almost every time a teammate was in scoring position because, let's face it, he very seldom had men on base to drive home. Also, of course, how many good pitchers did Winfield get to hit? Who was batting behind him, scaring the pitcher? Did they pitch around Winfield? They circumnavigated the guy!

Ask yourself!

(1) What would Winfield have done with the bat in the Reds or the Dodgers or the Phillies or Cubs or Pirates or Expos lineups

(2) Would San Diego have been able to avoid last place or come even close to fourth place without Winfield.

Voters might say, well, it's true that the Padres would have finished last if it weren't for Winfield, but what's the difference between fifth and last place?

THE ANSWER to that is that it doesn't lie in where San Diego finished in the standings, but in how many players today could make a difference in virtually two places in the standings of their team.

Probably the problem in MVP voting is that it has never been really defined by baseball as to whether that title should go to the man who was most valuable to his team, or most valuable to the LEAGUE, i.e. helping to put the strongest representative into the World Series.

Balboa's Alumni Association will host the second annual Balboa Athletic Hall of Fame Dinner Dance at 6 p.m. at the San Mateo Elks Club on October 6.

There is going to be music from the 30's, 40's and early 50's, and a lot of frills, such as a hugging booth, taxi dancers and a jitterbug contest.

ASSOCIATION president Emily Powell Sumrall reminds that last year's dinner-dance was a sellout, so she urges all those interested to call her at 826-8046 (evenings), or Joan Anderson Christensen (467-5021) for reservations.

There are many current Peninsula former jocks on this year's nomination list. Last year those inducted were: Woodward Adams, Gary DeLong, Wilson Faumuina, Toddy Giannini, Henry "Red" Jensen, Calvin Jones, Charles Martucci, (posthumous), Ken Meitz, Tony Piazzi, Bob Roselli, Jess Racines, John Schiechl (posthumous), George Varoff, Willie Wise and Roy Yuretiff (postumous).

TAG END BASEBALL TRIVIA:

Duffy Lewis was the only man to ever pinch-hit for Babe Ruth. It happened, obviously, when Ruth was a young pitcher. It also helps to know that Duffy was a native San Franciscan. Lewis also was the only known man to see both Ruth's first and last major league homeruns.

The Moonraker gets glowing food report

THE DIET CORNER
By ELISE GENDAR

By ELISE GENDAR

Fat is not happy . . . for children as well as adults.

The fat kid is often the butt of unkind jokes by schoolmates. He or she does not get chosen for the softball team, or to play the lead in the school play. The dating scene is tough for fat teen-agers.

Fat people are discriminated against in many ways, including admission to college and in the job market.

Social problems are not the only reason that you should be concerned about your overweight child. Eighty-five percent of fat children grow up to be fat adults. In adulthood, obesity can lead to heart disease. The time to start getting your child's weight down is now.

Dieting children should consume about 1,600 calories daily. A child under 12 needs the following from the four basic food groups each day:

Milk and dairy products, 3 servings
Meat, fish or poultry, 2 servings
Fruits and vegetables, 4 servings
Breads and cereals, 4 servings

The Diet Workshop has prepared some basic guidelines that will help parents help their children diet. Top on the list is the warning, "do not nag." Good advice. Nagging simply causes hostility.

To be successful with your child means keeping food your child should not eat out of the house. Neither adults nor children can cope with that kind of temptation. If you or other family members must indulge in high calorie goodies, have them when you're out and when your youngster is not with you.

Learn to eliminate extra calories from your cooking by browning vegetables and meats in bouillon rather than fat, using skim milk in place of whole milk, trimming fats from meats before cooking, using coated pans or vegetable pan spray.

Pack tasty diet school lunches for your child.

Educate your youngster about choosing snacks such as fruits or ice milk rather than brownies or a hot fudge sundae.

Set a good example by your own good eating habits.

Keep a diet chart, and reward your child with activity-based rewards, such as a family swim or a bird walk. Reward your son or daughter for sticking to the diet.

Encourage social activities that will keep your child's mind off food.

Above all, be understanding. Your dieting child needs all the love and support you can give.

This yummy dessert is sweet and satisfying, but low in calories.

Pursuit of power and glory

The Demagogue's Disease!

Edward A. Morris defines it as the pursuit of power and glory by career politicians. To it he ascribes most of the political turmoil in the world today.

It's a problem "every bit as severe and widespread as smallpox once was" and just as deadly. Whenever people get into public office, "they become susceptible to the demagogue's disease.

This mental condition, the desire to remain in a position of power and glory, might be described as an inflammation of the ego that causes swelling without growth. It erodes wisdom. It can strike clerks in a bureaucracy as well as kings and presidents.

"To put it charitably, politicians — with the demagogue's disease — tend to be immodest. Since they are continually running for office, they take to heart the advice found in Gilbert and Sullivan's musical, Rudigore:

"If you wish in the world to advance
Your merits you're bound to enhance.
You must stir it and stump it
And blow your own trumpet,
Or, trust, me you haven't a chance."

The demagogue's disease effects its victims in different ways. In Haiti it turned a medical doctor, "Papa Doc" Duvalier, into a ruthless leader who rode through the muddy streets of his poverty-stricken country in a chauffered limousine.

IN THE Central African Republic it turned Jean Bedel Bokassa into an emperor who adorned himself with a crown containing 2,000 diamonds and sat on a throne weighing two tons and crafted in the shape of a giant, gilded eagle.

In the United States the demagogue's disease makes some politicians extravagant in their research for publicity. They raise their arms in salutes to the people; they erect welcome signs containing their names on the outskirts of their cities; they ride in motorcadec and wave with benign smiles.

On the other hand, the demagogue's disease "causes some politicians to appear unpretentious with their unpretentiousness being well advertised. For example, when President Carter wears denims, the White House stresses the fact to prove he is just like us. California's Governor Jerry Brown even got political mileage from driving an old Plymouth and sleeping on a mattress on the floor."

THE MOST dire symptoms of the ailment makes the leader so addicted to power and glory that he seeks to become "president for life" and even perpetuate his reign by installing his wife or his son in the Chiang Kai-shek or Juan Peron fashion.

"I am the man" becomes the catchword in the ruler's mind. Like Richard Nixon, he claims that illegal acts are legal if he commits them; like Idi Amin, he speaks of himself as the "punishment of God"; like King Khaled of Saudi Arabia, he builds costly palaces and yachts costing $14 million, or like President Mobuto of Zaire, he throws parties wherein the Coca Cola alone costs $60,000.

The demagogue's disease gave rise to Julius Caesar and Adolf Hitler. It turned Napoleon from a soldier into an empire builder and his nephew, Louis Napoleon, from a President into a king who slew the republic he had sworn to protect.

How can the American republic keep the demagogue's disease from destroying her constitutional government? In Morris' mind, it must enact laws of tenure limitation, especially for the President of the United States and the members of both houses of Congress. "The old system of career politics simply isn't working."

The Demagogue's Disease (World Wide Products, $4.50) is being widely read and has been hailed as significant book. Surely, it presents a lucid overview of a world-wide problem. However, the book does not prescribe a treatment for the demagogue's disease at its source, "career politics."

HOW DO you keep ambitious men and women in grass-roots areas from contracting the disease as they progress from office to office in million-dollar campaigns?

Nevertheless, the Demagogue's Disease is a well written, provocative book by a San Francisco attorney of renown. You may be sure it will be widely read as several proposed Constitutional amendments are introduced.

Eight compete for queen title

Eight young women from San Mateo County cities will compete for the title of "Queen Isabella," to reign over Italian-American Federation celebrations of Columbus Day, Oct. 5-7.

Association president Joseph E. Bergeron said everything is ready for the celebration, which includes judging of queen candidates Oct. 5, a pageant and Columbus Day Banquet Oct. 6, and the annual Coyote Point Columbus landing ceremonies Sunday, Oct. 7, at 10:30 a.m.

Bergeron said the top three Queen Isabella candidates will receive U.S. Savings Bond prizes.

The candidates are:

Patty Edel, 18, of Menlo Park, a freshman student at the University of California at Davis who enjoys playing guitar, backpacking, camping, and swimming with handicapped people.

Monica De Rosa, 17, of San Carlos, a senior at Mercy High School who likes horseback riding and bowling.

Elisa Marie Del Carlo, 16, of San Carlos, a sophomore at San Carlos High School, who likes horseback riding, jogging, bike riding, swimming and dancing.

Danielle Pagani, 16, from San Mateo, a junior at Aragon High School who likes jogging, roller skating, skiing, volunteer work at Mills Memorial Hospital, and singing or speaking Italian.

Dorio Milo, 19, of Foster City, is a graduate of Burlingame High who enjoys sewing, drawing, ballet, water skiing, gymnastics and cooking.

Denise Munson, 18, a San Mateo girl who is a student at College of San Mateo, and who likes modeling, make-up, dancing, skiing, racquetball, and horseback riding.

Laurie Quadros, 17, of Millbrae, is a senior at Capuchino High. She is a varsity cheerleader, a member of the Capuchino Marching Band, enjoys playing the flute, singing, swimming and skiing.

Cheryl Ann Silvas, 22, of South San Francisco, is a senior at San Jose State University studying psychology. She enjoys water and snow skiing, racquetball, tennis, jogging and theater arts.

Association president Bergeron said Municipal Court Judge James O. Miller, San Mateo County Supervisor John M. Ward, Anna Eshoo and Anna Righini will serve as judges at the Peninsula Social Club event on Oct. 5.

For the Oct. 6 banquet and pageant, said Bergeron, Superior Court Judge Walter P. Capaccioli will serve as master of ceremonies, with Amadeo Gado of Atherton presiding as Christopher Columbus.

The festivities begin at 6 p.m. in the Peninsula Social Club in San Mateo.

On Sunday, Oct. 7, at 10:30 a.m., Gado will lead a re-enactment of Columbus' historic landing in the new world, at Coyote Point Marina. The Rev. Donald D'Angeleo will conclude the ceremonies with an open-air Mass.

Tickets may be obtained from Joseph Bergeron, a San Mateo attorney, from Mrs. William B. Addiego of Redwood City, or from Mrs. R.M. Pulliam of San Bruno.

D.C. man is honored

A family man who lives to dress up as Santa Claus when he drives his bus at Christmas time — that's Lathay McFadden, who received the award as the San Francisco Municipal Railway's "Operator-of-the-Month" for August during a special ceremony at Muni's Kirkland Division on September 21.

McFaffen, 44, first joined the Muni 21 years ago.

A resident of Daly City, he presently drives motor coaches on the 42-Sansome line, out of Kirkland, a Muni division located in the Fisherman's Wharf area. Before joining Muni in 1958, he was in military service.

He also tried to get into professional baseball, trying out with the San Francisco Giants four times. A knee injury kept him from succeeding in that venture.

Anyone who dresses up as Santa Claus in December is bound to like kids, right? — a safe assumption with McFadden, who has been a scoutmaster with Troop and Pack 595 for the past 11 years, connected with All Hallows Church, where he has been a member for 16 years.

He also works with the children in his neighborhood, assisting them with their problems and working with them in informal rap sessions.

McFadden's wife Betty has worked for the Post Office for the past 15 years. The couple has two children, Lathay Jr. and Regina. Son Lathay, 20, goes to the College of San Mateo, where he is studying electrical engineering, and trying out for the basketball team.

Measuring 6-4 in height, he was the first freshman or sophomore to high jump six feet two inches.

Regina is attending Serramonte High School. At the age of 16, she is a straight A student and plans to go on to San Jose State University.

McFadden's chief recreational interests are bowling and fishing. When he can get away, he fishes at Clear Lake and Lake Berryessa. He's also very much interested in horses, and boards one, a Palomino named Big Dan.

Ask McFadden sometime about his experiences at Christmas time when he's dressed as "Jolly Old Saint Nick." He'll answer that the informal relationships he has with passengers at that time are rewarding indeed. The kids on his line are delighted.

He has so many safety awards on his record that he "can't think exactly how many." As for the Muni-Operator-of-the-Month Award, he can't believe it happened. "I already knew, of course, that someone wins the award," he says, "but that someone is always someone else."

During the ceremony at Kirkland Division on the 21st of this month, McFadden received the M-O-O-M award; U.S. Savings Bonds from the Transport Workers Union, Local 250-A, and from LaGrone's Insurance Agency. He also received a check for $100 from the Metro Transit Advertising Co.
